Contract Between:

Katrina Healey-Davis	'Counsellor'
and
	'Client'

Counsellor responsibilities

1. To be available at the agreed time and to start and end on time
2. To offer a quiet, appropriate and undisturbed space
3. To maintain safe, professional boundaries
4. To regard all contact and information as confidential unless:
 - as a result of agreeing a referral to a third party, such as GP or support service
 - the counsellor has reasonable doubt concerning actual safety of the client or others (including a child or vulnerable adult); or is concerned about the client's health/behaviour and the client is not able to perceive this;
 - the client discloses a serious crime, terrorism;
 - the counsellor is compelled to do so by a court of law

If a situation arose in which the counsellor needed to break the confidentiality, she would endeavour to obtain the client's permission to do so first.
5. To encourage client autonomy
6. To work within the BACP Ethical Framework (available upon request) including regular supervision (see additional information below)
7. To be adequately trained: The counsellor holds an MSc in Counselling Psychology and has completed various courses relating to Solution Focused Therapy (SFT), Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT), trauma and online and telephone counselling.
8. To review the therapeutic work and relationship regularly
9. In the unlikely event of the counsellor cancelling, an alternative appointment would be offered as soon as possible. If the counsellor is unavailable for more than 2 weeks, alternative therapists will be offered.
10. To endeavour to give the client at least two weeks prior notice of forthcoming holidays or breaks unless under exceptional circumstances.
11. When working online/ telephone, the counsellor will not electronically record sessions

Client responsibilities

1. To provide the minimum personal data requested by the counsellor to enable safe and professional practice (please see client information form to be completed at or before the start of the first session)
2. To attend punctually. When working remotely (telephone/ webcam) the client will decide whether to initiate the session or the counsellor at the preagreed time and date.

Counsellor Ethics and Supervision

As a member of the British Association of Counsellors and Psychotherapists and professional indemnity to practice and follow their ethical guidelines, the counsellor has a counselling supervisor with whom cases are reviewed on a regular basis. Client identity will be kept confidential at all times during those case reviews.

Data Protection

The counsellor needs to collect certain data from the client in order to facilitate therapy (as per the client information sheet) and to meet mandatory insurance requirements regarding therapeutic notes. The counsellor takes the client's privacy very seriously and will take all reasonable steps to ensure the protection of data. All notes and documents relating to counselling work are held securely, will only be seen by the counsellor (unless compelled by Law), and must be retained for five years after which they will be shredded.

The notes are used as a reminder of topics discussed in sessions. These are unidentifiable using an allocated client code and are stored separately to client personal data. Contact details may be used in order to inform the client about appointments or to pass on information or resources that have been discussed in sessions.

Under the General Data Protection Regulations 2018, the client has certain rights. These are:

1. The client is allowed to see their notes. This is facilitated by making a formal request.
2. Records are kept for 5 years after termination of therapy and then destroyed. In the case of clients under 18, records are kept for 5 years after the child turns 18.

- 3. Having their records amended (change of name and address)
- 4. Under GDPR, clients can request your data to be erased. However, there are exceptions to this.

Please note that if there is no data consent (by signing this contract), the counsellor would be unable to engage the client.

Complaints Procedure

The aim is that you the client will benefit from the work done together. If, however, the client feels that there is cause for complaint the BACP has a formal complaints procedure and they can be contacted on: Tel: 01455 883300; Minicom: 01455 550307, Text: 01455 560606 <http://www.bacp.co.uk/>

Personal crisis procedure

The counsellor cannot provide an emergency service for clients. If you find yourself in a major crisis and were considering serious self-harm it would be vital to get immediate help. This could include contacting your GP, or going to your nearest accident and emergency department (A & E). You could also call the Samaritans on 08457 909090 or visit their website www.samaritans.org

This agreement and any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with its subject matter or formation (including non-contractual disputes or claims) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the law of England and Wales.

I have read, understood and agree to all of the sections of the contract detailed above, including the data protection.
